Revision

Have you ever won an award? Some schools in Britain offer a good citizenship award. It's for students who spend time helping other students or people in their community. You don't need to be academically brilliant to win this award. If you help other students learn something or achieve something, you might win the award. One student in Scotland set up an anti-bullying campaign in his school. He was nominated for the award and he won it! What could you do that would help you win a good citizenship award?
