Białowieża National Park

This national park is on the border between Poland and Belarus. The forest is home to many animals, from large animals such as elks and wolves to smaller animals such as beavers.

It's famous for the 600 or more European bison that live in the park. There are also some endangered animals, such as the white-backed woodpecker. Part of the national park is the oldest forest in Europe – it's one of the most important scientific sites in the world.

Up to 150,000 tourists visit this national park every year. One of the most popular attractions there is the European bison Show Reserve, where they can get close to the enormous bison.

St Kilda

St Kilda is a group of small islands on the west side of Scotland. It's an important nature reserve because of the rare birds, sheep and butterflies that live there.

One of the most popular features at St Kilda are the puffins. Every summer about 270,000 puffins come to St Kilda. Puffins are sometimes called sea clowns because they look funny, with their brightly-coloured beaks and orange feet.

They walk in a funny way, and they fly in a funny way. They can use their wings to swim underwater, like penguins. Tourists love to watch them.
